As Homecoming week drew near one could hear faint whisperings echo throughout the halls. "I sure do hope we win the game." "I think our float's the best." When the week finally did arrive it was one of a kind. The Mass, which was sponsered by N.H.S., came first. The slide show shown at the Mass, presented the unity of O'Hara. Next came the traditional junior/senior powder-puff game. As usual the seniors dominated. They beat the juniors by a score of 18-6. Then, as the week was drawing to a close, the parade began. The Polo club won this year's float contest. Soon tension began to fill the air . . . everybody began to get excited . . . and then it happened . . . the game started. The Celtics cut loose and beat the Southwest Indians by a score of 19-12 in afun-filled game!!

Night Long

Right: The sentiments of the evening are captured in the smiling faces of Karen and Charlie.

A Night With Lionel Ritchie-All Night Long was the theme for the 1984 OHS Homecoming. As couples strolled in they were surrounded with starry lights, and met by a melange of music. For seniors, this was their last High School Homecoming, and even though it was the beginning of a long school year there were many who were realizing that they should make the time left worthwhile. Many did feel the thus far was worthwhile as they saw Diane McLaury and Chris Sweeney crowned King and Queen.

Celtics took the tracks on October 6 to earn money in the annual fundraiser The Jog A Thon. Students took pledges for their estimated laps around the track. A goal was set for the entire school with the bonus being a free day. This motivated many to get out and find pledges. All in all 27, 668 was collected, a substantial amount which gave the entire school their free day.

Arsenic And Old Lace

Mortimer Brewster takes action to help his aunts.

As the curtains rose and the play began, suspense started to fill the theatre. Arsenic and Old Lace was a first at O'Hara. Meaning that this was the first time it was performed at O'Hara. It was also the first time Ms. Debbie Lewis directed a play at O'Hara. The entire action of the play takes place in the Brewsters living room in Brooklyn, New York in the year 1941. The plot of Arsenic and Old Lace is . . . two women in their later years feel that their duty is to "put to rest" older men by poisoning them with arsenic. But they are found out by their nephew, Mortimer Brewster, and his fiancee, Elaine Harper. As the play progresses the police enter and do next to nothing. In the end the two return to poisoning old men. Arsenic and Old Lace was one of O'Hara's best productions yet!!!

Winter-Dinner Theatre . . .

Lovely Snow is repulsed by the sight of the dwarves.

The police are returning some of the Lister's things.

Winter-Dinner Theatre, sponsored by O'Hara Community Theatre, was once again a success. Preshow, plus four one act comedies were performed at this year's show. Three out of the four plays were directed by O'Hara students. The whole show was produced by Patrick Thornton.

The theme of Preshow this year, was "That's Entertainment". Preshow featured a variety of shows ranging from a love song to a spoof on actors and actresses to everyone singing together in "That's Entertainment". Preshow was coordinated and directed by senior Jan Rog.

The first play of the evening was The Mysterious Stranger directed by Tom Weishar. It was about a family whose belongings began suddenly and strangely disappearing. Peter Lister one of the two Lister children, became a "detective" and discovered that a monkey was responsible for all the mysterious occurences.

Man from Mamaronek was the second play of the show. Directed by David Gunter, Man from Mamaronek was a delightful comedy about marriage. The story was about a couple who go away on their second honeymoon. A arguement breaks out between the two about which anniversary they are celebrating. The high point of this play is when the audience realizes that another woman is involved.

The third play was Snow White and Friends a parody of the story of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. Directed by Fran Pascolini, Snow White and Friends was a huge success. The story goes like this; a valley girl named Snow is taken to the forest to be killed by the nerd woodsman. But he spares her life and tells her to seek shelter with some dwarves who live in the woods. She finds the dwarves who are, in reality, punk rockers. Meanwhile, the queen finds out Snow is still alive and tries to kill her but is foiled by Spike Dwarf and the woodsman turned prince.

The final show of the night was Scrambled Eggs. This was the alumni play. It was about a star who gets stranded in the mountains. Many personalities are revealed in that desperate evening. When help finally did arrive the people that were stranded were joyous.

Winter-Dinner Theatre this year was a definate and true success. It was a job well done.

O'Hara Cuts Loose

Just when it seemed that winter would never end Spirit Week and the Celt Olympics came along. Lead by the cheerleaders Spirit Week '85 was once again a huge success. Included during the week was green & gold day and red, white & blue day. But, the real excitement came on the last day — Celt Olympics. Sponsered by Stu-Co it ended the dullness of winter. This day was full of many diversified events such as toilet paper wrapping, trike riding, doughnut eating, five legged races, and last but not least, egg breakings. What a day! Whew!!

The audience hushed as the actors ran out onto the stage. Everyone waited in anticipation for the play to begin. Within those magic moments between the beginning and the end stars were born. When the end finally did arrive everyone was jubilant.

Godspell, a play performed on Broadway for three years, follows the life and teachings of a modern Jesus Christ according to the gospel of St. Matthew. The disciples of the Lord are common, everyday people found in the streets of a large city.

The cast and crews were tense, on that first night, waiting to see whether the audience was receptive of their efforts to get one, simple message across — love. The crowd did seem to understand . . . they gave them a standing ovation. The cast and crews really did cut loose with Godspell. What a success! What a fantastic show!!

Junior Ring Day . . .

Mrs. Sachs happily gives Maria Lee her ring.

A junior, Derek Moorhead, thoughtfully looks at his ring.

Togetherness, years that have gone by, years still to come, times of new friendships, sharing, and new found responsibilities in the future. All of these elements contributed to the excitement of Junior Ring Day. The special unity of the Junior class made it memorial for everyone. The Mass, put together by the Juniors, was stunning. The theme of this year's Ring Day was "Through the Years". The slide show presented that unity and special feelings that the Junior class possess, but the climax of this enchanting day was the presenting of the rings. Thoughts of being the new leaders of O'Hara, of no longer being under classmen were in the minds of most juniors. "Through the Years" truly did express the sentiment of the juniors. Through the years . . .

Prom the name itself conjures up pictures of young men and ladies dancing the night away dressed to the nines in tuxes and formals. The 1985 Prom was no exception. It was held at the Radisson Muhelbach on May 4. The couples started arriving at 6:00 to dine on such culinary delights as chicken, roast beef and ham. At 8:00 the rug was rolled back and the couples sailed across the dance floor to a melange of tunes. At 10:00 all eyes were on the center stage as the junior STUCO members announced the Prom court. The King and Queen were Mike Letzig and Caren Schallenberg, the court members were Angie Wozniak, Lisa Hernandez, Karen Egender, Terry Small, Brian Leeper, and Mark Glass. After the crowning, the court took the floor and danced to the Prom theme "One More Night" by Phil Collins. At 11:00 the lights came up signaling the end of the dance. Although the dance was over it was just the beginning of one more night to remember.

The Final

The last two pages in the final chapter of high school were the Baccalaureate Mass and Graduation. At the Mass and Graduation recognition was given to those who graduated with honors and also to NHS members. At the Mass, those who received scholarships were given recognition. The class of '85 had over $500,000 in confirmed scholarships- a remarkable sum which reflects the caliber of which our class is made.

After the Baccalaureate Mass there was a reception at the commons where we saw a slide show and watched our classmates receive their senior awards. At Graduation, speeches were given by Mr. Bitner and our special guest Father Tom Reardon. Ann Sachs the Salutatorian and Becky Cisek the Valedictorian gave encouraging speeches which told us to remember the good times and to use the valuable assets we aquired during our four years at O'Hara. The closing words of our chapter here at O'Hara came when Mrs. Sachs presented the Class of '85.

CLUBS

Celtettes: Cut Loose

The 1984-85 O'Hara Celtettes had a lot of new talent. Led by Captain Maureen Smith, Co-Captain Liz Terrell, and Moderator Ms. Ann Wright, they enjoyed success this year. This past summer, the Celtettes attended the Superstar Drill Team Camp at KU.

The Celtettes perform at half time at every home football and basketball game. The routines are choreographed by members of the drill team. Many hours of practice were needed to get all the different steps down. The practice paid off though as they dazzled us with their performances. We will see many new faces next year, but they will show how good they are.

Spirit, Spirit

The Cheerleaders of O'Hara are a hard working group of girls. They spend many hours a week practicing to get the cheers perfect. Also they spend a week during the summer at cheerleading camp competing and learning new cheers and formations. The cheerleaders are at every game getting the crowd involved in the action. They help to give our teams the support they need to win.

The cheerleaders are the sponsors of Spirit Week. This year students were allowed three days to be out of uniform. Each day had specifications of what should be worn such as green and gold day. On friday, the Celt Olympics were held. To end the week of fun and spirit, the Spirit Dance was held in the commons where the Spirit King and Queen were crowned. The cheerleaders do a lot to keep the spirit of O'Hara alive.

The French Club gives students the chance to become involved in French-related activities outside of the classroom. Toward this end, some of the activities engaged in this year were a lunch trip to Andres Pastry Shop in the fall and singing French Christmas songs at Bannister Mall in December.

The big money raiser for the French Club is selling roses for Valentine's Day. This was a tremendous success this year and allowed more money to be put into the Foreign Language Banquet and Foreign Language Week. Partly for this reason, and partly due to a much wider participation from students, this year's Foreign Language Activities were an even greater success than in the past.

This year the Spanish Club's moderator was Sr. Anna Maria Jalon. There was a large interest this year with more than forty students involved, the largest number since 1981. The purpose of the Spanish club was to help the members be more aware and understand the cultures of Spanish speaking people. Meetings were held every month to discuss future field trips and ideas for raising money for foreign language week. One way they raised money was by selling custom made Spanish dolls in the commons. Because the dolls sold so well, it made the foreign language banquet that much more of a success.

Student Council — Leadership

Student Council is a leadership organization at O'Hara. It's purpose is to develope leadership talent in the school and O'Hara community. Student Council is responsible for creating school spirit, offering social activities, doing community service, and acting as the liason between the student body and the administration.

This year, Student Council went through an overhaul process that greatly improved its efficiency. New, more progressive programs were developed as less effective activities were dropped. In respect to school spirit Stu-Co held to the traditional Celt-Olympics, Homecoming Week, and the Spirit Chain competition. With regards to school activities Stu-Co offered the three screen production "Desparados," the rock band "Freefire," and the talent show "Fascination." In the area of community service two blood drives, a food drive, and a toy drive were all arranged.

The Student Council believes they have had a very good year due partly to the leadership of President "Bonehead" Leanne Noll. Moderator Br. Ed Siderwicz was also quite pleased with the quality of leadership Stu-Co puts out and could only dream of a better job.

Photography Takes

Time And Talent

This year the Photography Club had a new moderator, Mr. Pat St. Louis, as well as a very small staff of photographers. In order to compensate for the small staff photo assignments were given and dark room times alloted. Many times it was difficult to cover the many different events; however, they all knew that if pictures weren't taken the memory could never be resored for a picture. It was for this reason that the photographers took time and pride in what they did.

Taking the picture was not by far the final step though. Many hours of developing and printing were spent in the dark room. Sometimes it was even necessary to print and develope not only after school but also on weekends in order for the yearbook and newspaper to meet their deadlines. At times it seemed that one would never get the perfect print but once it was finally accomplished and printed in the yearbook or newspaper it seemed to be worth the long hours spent. Not all was hard work though — many fun hours were put in by Seniors Ann Kohn and Craig Holland who nominated "Round & Round" by Rath as the Official Photography Club song.

F.C.A. — A Special Experience.

Fellowship of Christian Atheletes is a special organization. It is not only for atheletes because cheerleaders, drill team members, and non-atheletes participated in benefitted from the experience.

FCA tried ideally to meet around twice a month either in the Commans or at someone's house. The meetings were led by Co-Presidents Diane McLaury, Chris Sweeny, Gretchen Isom and Moderator Br. Mike Martin. Topics such as responsibility, friendship, and commitment were discussed but if the discussion shifted everyone was open to the new topics. Seniors shared insights into their experience of High School while Frosh talked of the new things they were experiencing.

Guest speakers sometimes came to offer a new and different perspective on a particular topic. Students could then ask questions and talk about what had been said.

FCA was a place to go to talk with people who were willing to listen. Students could get away from the hassles of homework and tests for awhile. It was a special experience for all.

National Honor Society.

National Honor Society is a selective organization at O'Hara whose main purpose is to serve not only the O'Hara community but also the community outside of school doors. The qualities that can be found in a member of NHS are Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service. In order to be accepted one must have at least a "B" average, have served the community in some way, and have shown leadership qualities. Members are required to tutor someone each quarter and in addition help out in at least one group project per semester. Some of these functions are the Parent-Teacher Conferences, the Eighth Grade Open House, the O'Hara Auction, and Baccalaureate. NHS also provides scholarships to incoming freshmen. However, even with all the other projects, NHS does not lose sight of spirituality: it is responsible for the planning of the Homecoming Mass. All told NHS is a force at O'Hara that brings out the best.

A Year Of Change

This year Actor's Factory had a new moderator, Ms. Debbie Lewis. The students ran the organization but they had to be open to Ms. Lewis' ideas. She also had to learn how the students liked to do things.

AF choose Arsenic and Old Lace for the fall play while for the spring musical the spiritual Godspell was chosen. There was also a Winter Dinner Theatre consisting of four one act plays. Besides all these activities, AF sponsors a dress down day and the Halloween Dance. During this year, they were also going to try to sponsor a child in Africa. AF may have had some difficulty at times this year, but they survived and managed to do some great things.

The officers this year were: President Tom Weishar, Vice-President Pat Thornton, Secretary Fran Pascolini, Treasurer David Gunter, and Seargents at Arms Tim Gouger and Joe Beach.

The Forensics Club is a group of people that compete in several areas: Dramatic Interpretation, Humorous Interpretation, Extemporaneous Speaking, Duet Acting, Debate, Poetry Reading, Oratory, One-Act Plays, Prose Reading, Readers Theatre, Radio Speaking, and Storytelling.

The moderator this year was Mrs. Dianna Nimmo. She helped coordinate the students. The team attends contests in the city and out of city. The seasons last from October to March. Many long hours of hard work are put in by the team to do their best.

The Forensics team has great potential, and we will expect to see some great things from them next year.

I.R.C. : A Model U.N.

The International Relations Club learn about the world around them. They participate in model United Nations where they represent a country and any problem it might encounter. This year IRC worked to take a trip to Washington D.C. The club had fund raising projects to earn money to help pay for the trip. These included bake sales and a new idea of raffling off a teacher who had the pleasure of making dinner for a student.

When the students were in Washington they represented Cuba at the model U.N. Students from all over the country came to participate in this. Besides the U.N., the students also went to many of the famous sites in Washington D.C. such as the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument. Ms. Wright accompanied the students because Mr. Mobley, the moderator, had prior committments.

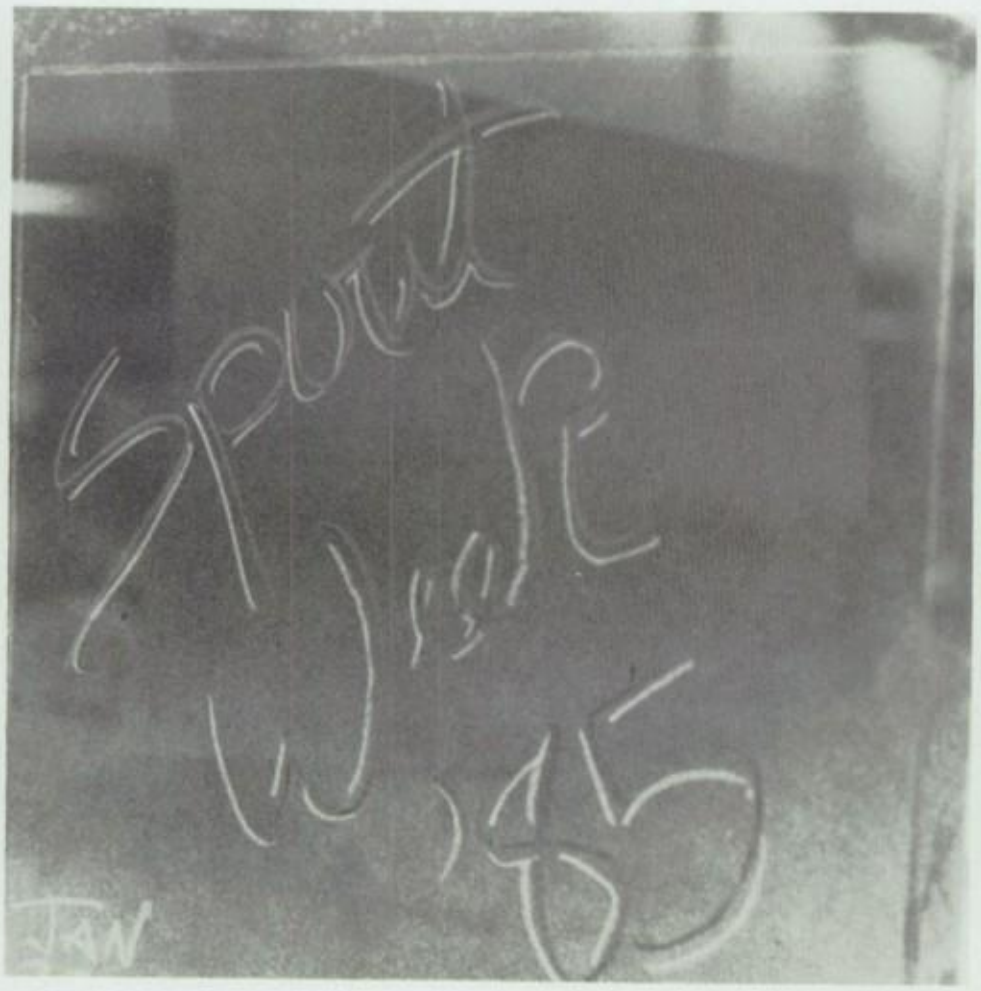
The students gained valuable experience from the trip to Washington. They learned more about how the U.N. works and how it affects the world we live in. These students have taken a step in learning how to be the leaders of tomorrow.

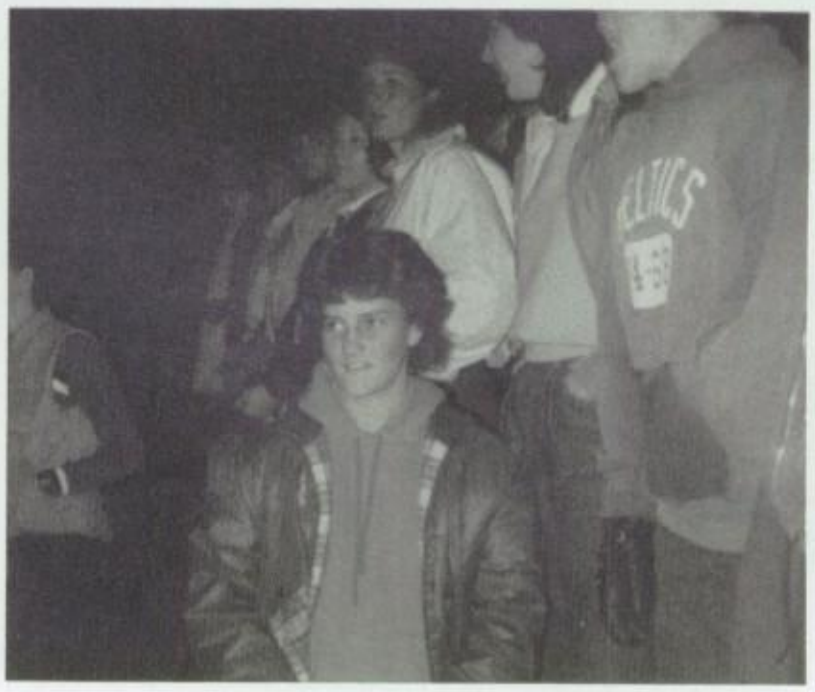
Green And Gold - Spirit Leaders.

Green and Gold is the foundation of spirit at O'Hara. It is made up of the Spirit Club, Cheerleaders, and Drill Team.

They attended all the Football, Basketball, Soccer, Volleyball and Wrestling games or matches. Pep Club are the ones who start all the cheers and get everyone else cheering. They are also the ones who put all the signs up in the commans and bake the cookies and cakes for the players.

Besides all that, Green and Gold sponsors the WPA Dance. Members spent many hours planning and decorating for the dance which had a theme of "Balloons." All their hard work paid off, as the dance was successful and everyone had a good time. Green and Gold helped to boost the spirit of everyone this year.





Yearbook Staff:

Facing Challenges.

The O'Hara yearbook staff faces many challenges in trying to put together a book full of memories, activities, people, places and events. Countless hours are put in by the entire staff as they do their best to make a book represent a year for about eight hundred people involved in many different things. Pictures must be taken, found, and developed, copy must be written, checked for accuracy and spelling and rewritten, and lay-outs must be perfected using the available pictures and copy.

Newspaper And Deadlines Go Hand In Hand.

After working many long, hard hours in order to meet deadlines, the staff of O'Hara's newspaper, The Celtic Sword, managed to put out three editions of the paper during the 1984-85 school year. Long, sleepless nights were spent with last minute corrections and changes the nights before a deadline — ask Editor-in-Chief Ann Sachs. Other editors were Lynn Steely as Sports editor and Pat Thornton as Advertising editor. Soccer-A Season

1984 was a season that saw a Varsity soccer team made up of players who had never won more than eight games in a single season, playing fifteen of twenty matches against 4-A and 5-A schools larger than O'Hara — "a team loaded with unfulfilled potential." 1984 was also a season that saw this same varsity soccer team win seventeen of twenty matches, win both tournaments it entered (the Kansas City Invitational and the Sedalia Invitational), make it to District Finals for the first time, place three players on the Kansas City Star All-Metro Team, nine players on the All-District team, and set school records in both offensive and defensive catagories by which future teams will be judged.

The 1984 Junior Varsity Soccer team was under leadership of a new coach this season — Mr. Dennis Altschul. With fifteen of twenty-four players being Freshmen the team was up against older and larger players but still managed to compile a respectable 5-4-2 record. Having such a large number of Freshmen trying out for and making the team at O'Hara insures that Celtic soccer will be promising in the next few years.

A Season

The Lady Celts although they got off to a rocky start ended their season as winners. The 1985 season ended with the team being both Conference and District champs. Three team members were selected as members of the all conference team, they were Caren Shallenberg, Diane McLaury and Leigh Cigich. Shallenberg was also selected to be a member of the all district team. The team will be remembered as one with great spirit and determination. These qualities were best illustrated in the senior team members, Diane McLaury, Caren Shallenberg, Karen Egender and Lisa Hernandez. It was the leadership of these girls and alot of hard work which brought the team to the top.

O'Hara Wrestling Cuts Loose With Success.

The 1985 O'Hara Wrestling team has had a winning season with a record of 8-6 (not including Tournament play). This success has been attributed to Head Coach Paul Lorbert and Pat St. Louis and to seniors Chris Sweeny and Vince Hernandez. Their attitudes and leadership have set examples for the whole team to follow and have helped accomplish the team's goals and success. This year's team did well and had the best possible attitude against some tough challengers.

The Junior Varsity team had only one loss (not counting tournament play) to Belton — their first match. With many Freshmen on the squad the next few years ought to provide some of the best wrestling around — and it will be at O'Hara.

The Varsity boys basketball team really cut loose and surprised everyone with a winning season of 12-11. The team, led by Seniors Joe Tyler, Mike King, and Richard Debiretto, had an excellent start after losing their game opener to Center. They then went on to win six of the next seven games including first place in the William Chrisman Tournament by defeating William Chrisman and Hogan. O'Hara then went on to Districts but lost to Central by only three points. With the loss of only three seniors next year ought to be able to keep up the tradition of winning at O'Hara.

All The Hard Work

The girls varsity basketball team finished the season with a record of 22-4. They were undefeated in conference, placed second in Shawnee Mission South Tournament, third in the Hickman Mills tournament and for the first time in O'Hara's history took first in the Blue Springs tournament. This team was one with a great deal of leadership and spirit; the support among the members was remarkable. The team was made up of some very powerful players some of which received awards for their hard work. These girls were: Tina Santee who received an honorable mention to the all conference team, Karen Egender and Gail Morrill who were named members of the all conference team, Caren Shallenberg who was named to the second all-district team and Diane McLaury who was named to the first all district team. Caren Shallenberg was also named as an honorable mention on the all metro team.

Celtic Girls Cut Loose

Although soccer has been a varsity sport at O'Hara for the past three years; this Celtic soccer team was different: this one was all girls. The 1985 spring soccer season was the first season Missouri sanctioned All-Girls soccer as a varsity sport on the High school level and O'Hara was a part of it. Of the eight districts seven were in St. Louis, the eighth was a five team district in Kansas City consisting of Bishop Hogan, Notre Dame de Sion, Pembroke Hills, St. Theresa's Academy, and O'Hara.

Led by Seniors Karen Egender, Lisa Bader, and Nancy Chartrand, the Celtics traveled to St. Louis but lost 6-0 and 9-0 in the pre-season games. However, back in Kansas City, the Celtics had an edge after having played two of the best teams in the state and compiled a 6-1-1 record in regular season play. The Celtics received Second Place in Districts after defeating Pembroke Hills 1-0 but lost to St. Theresa's 4-2 in the Championship game.

Teach Us To Persevere

Teamwork may be necessary for the success of a sports team or any other group, but it is also vitally important in running a school of over 750 students.

Leading the way as captain is Stuart Bintner, principal, with Margaret Sachs, Br. Chris Englert, and Br. Mark Madsen performing their supporting roles. But, exactly for what do we depend on the administration and staff? Who would answer the phone and write your late slips if it wasn't for Mrs. Abell and Mrs. Leardi? Without Mrs. Quantry and Mrs. Beaven we wouldn't have to pay our tuition or listen to the daily bulletin. Br. Leonard tries to squeeze money out of the alumni, and Sr. Lurana keeps all those nasty records of us. The efforts of Mr. Kindiger and Mr. South keep O'Hara looking much cleaner than it really is. And of course the combined forces of Mr. Bintner, Mrs. Sachs, Br. Chris, and Br. Mark make announcements and give out detentions.

Obviously the staff carries out many tasks we take for granted. Their leadership and guidance is irreplaceable as no one else could do the job quite the same way.

COMMUNICATION, CULTURE — ALL IMPORTANT

The primary goals of the English department are to foster an understanding of and an appreciation for the English language and develop an adequate competancy in its use. The members of the department realize the importance of communicating effectively regardless of one's profession, and they strive to help their students learn various skills needed to do this. They also want to instill in their students an appreciation of literature, because it is an awareness of the humanities that keeps us sensitive to the importance of culture in our society.

The department is divided into an honors class and "B" and "C" classes to meet the needs of students at different learning levels. While grammar is stressed heavily freshman and sophomore years, the concentration shifts to composition and literature in the junior and senior levels.

Business &

One of the most important of all job offering fields in the United States today is business. The O'Hara business department offers preparation for life by providing a vast variety of business courses. The course offerings are broad enough for both the college bound and those that are seeking employment upon graduation from high school. Of the varied courses, typing is the only required subject with all of the others being electives. Computer classes are a fairly new addition to the classes offered in this department to keep up with the modern world.

The O'Hara business department gives every student an opportunity to learn the skills of typing and shorthand, the knowledge of accounting, the ways of managing a business, and the laws that guide us through each day. These courses give students the chance to begin preparing themselves for college and the working world.

The foreign language department at O'Hara offers the interested student four years of language and culture study in either French or Spanish. The department is equipped with skilled and enthusiastic instructors. This year the Spanish program has expanded to include two part-time instructors, Mrs. Margaret Herringer and Mrs. Susan Francis, in addition to Sr. Ana Maria Jalon, the full-time instructor. The department is headed by Ms. Mary Jane Fields, who teaches French.

The O'Hara foreign language department gives us the opportunity of obtaining an understanding of a foreign language and culture so we can broaden our horizons as individuals in a world of varied peoples.

Better understanding of the world around us can promote better understanding of ourselves and teach us to learn from others' mistakes. Through the courses offered by the O'Hara History department, we can aquire these skills.

The minimum requirements of Western Civilization, U.S. History, and World Perspectives give us the background we need to function as informed citizens. Other courses offered to students include American Government, Psychology, Sociology, and World Geography. These courses allow students to broaden their vision of our world and to see themselves as taking a role in happenings beyond the community.

The World

The O'Hara Religion department enables students to learn about their Catholic faith and its spiritual aspect in our lives. Classes range from Old Testament and Gospels to Death and Dying. Each class has a retreat they go on each year where they can learn more about themselves and their relationship with God. This brings the administration, faculty, staff, and students together in a faith community.

The Religion department gained two new teachers this year, Sr. Lenora Pipes, R.S.M., and Fr. John McCormack. Their talents and insights, together with those previous department members, combine to focus upon O'Hara's true reason for existence — a living Christian faith.

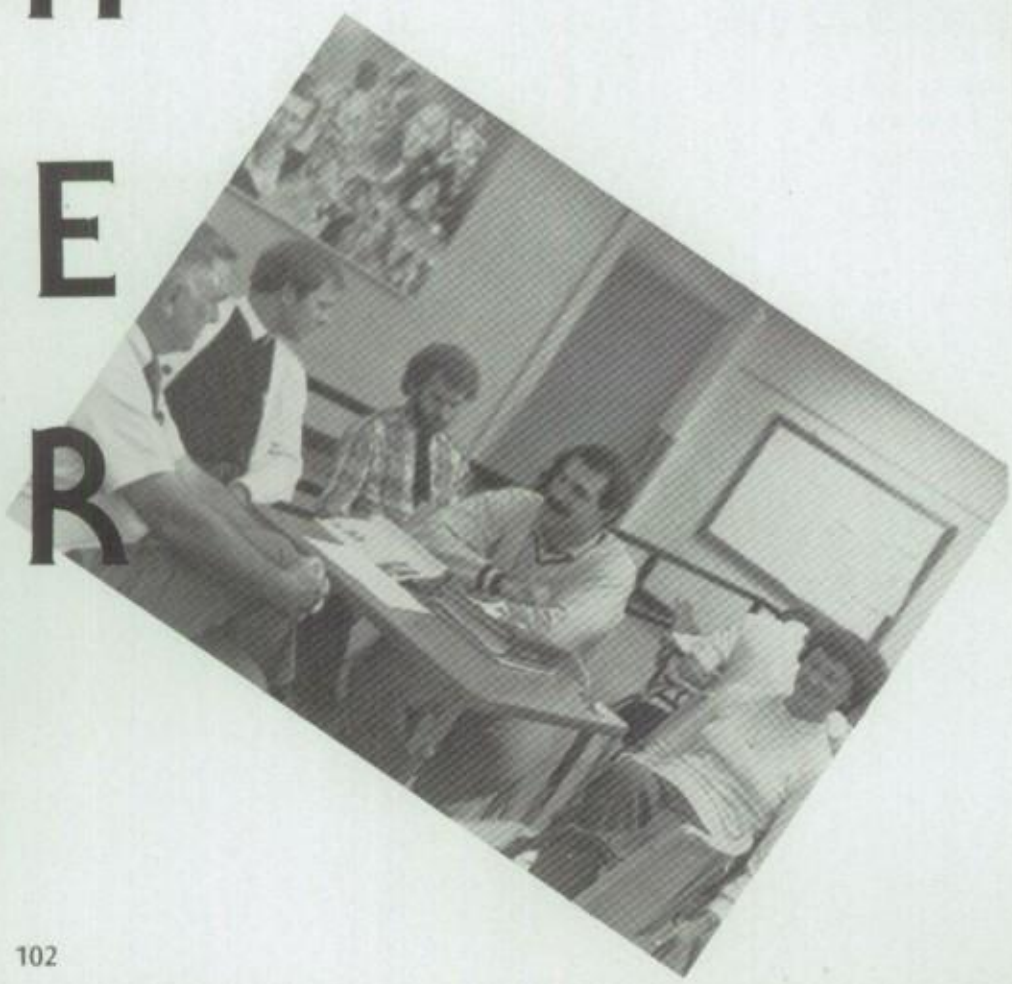
Counsel Us As Individuals



Teachers

Eight hours a day, five days a week plus countless evenings and weekends; unemployment in the summer months; poor pay and often little thanks.

Why would anyone want to work under such conditions? That is a good question, one that teachers probably ask themselves every day as they drive to school. Many times they may not come up with anything concrete — perhaps just a feeling that somehow, someway they are making a difference. At other times, however, a special encounter with a student may prompt a teacher to say: "That is why I continue to teach."

The faculty at O'Hara has much in common with teachers at any other high school in at least one aspect. A love of working with young people was the overriding response to the inquiry on their reason for teaching. This may seem to be an obvious answer to such a question, yet one that is absolutely necessary to the profession. But why do teachers derive so much enjoyment from their association with students? Could it be that we have something to offer them?

From the responses of several teachers, the answer is "yes". Besides the jokes and antics of students that keep teachers on their toes, many faculty members expressed the exchange of ideas and sharing of perspectives as an important part of their work experience. The daily routine of the classroom is not just one-sided; on the contrary, teachers may learn as much from us as we do from them. As Ms. Mary Jane Fields explains: "I find that in teaching I can learn a lot continually — by explaining, answering questions, and listening to students."

The other "ulterior motive" given for the enjoyment of their students is the chance to be a part of the future. By helping students "realize their own goodness and potential" (Br. Ed Siderewicz), by being "a positive influence to others" (Mr. Steve Hill), and by encouraging students to "broaden their experience" (Kathy Duggan), teachers are able to live on in each of their pupils and, in a way, are responsible for the successes and failures of the future.

"Choose life — only that and always, and at whatever risk."
Ms. Diane Skaar

Seen in such a light, teaching is a very serious profession, one that demands commitment and talent. Therefore, educators must also have the ability to help students learn and the background from which to draw. In a very real sense, students can learn only what the instructor has to offer. Thus, we come to perhaps the true reason most teachers choose to teach — to share their knowledge.

"Share" is the key word here. One does not desire to share something if he is not convinced of its worth and goodness. Sharing also implies a free offering to others with no strings attached, a selfless act. Teachers then are practicing one of the most basic applications of a Christian attitude through their daily work. They offer their best to students through interpretations of textbooks, by lecturing and assigning homework, and especially by stimulating that thinking process that is so vital to true learning. And whether it be Sr. Lenora Pipes teaching "the Good News of the Kingdom of God," Mrs. Ann Hennon trying to arouse a love of math, or Mrs. Susan Francis helping students "enjoy literature and . . . communicate effectively in writing," O'Hara's dedicated faculty certainly demonstrates its commitment to excellence in education.

The Class of 1985 would like to thank the O'Hara faculty for its irreplaceable guidance the last four years. Together both groups have grown and further enlightened their perspectives on life. If we have somehow neglected it in the past, we wish to take the opportunity now to extend our sincere appreciation to these individuals for their commitment to the profession of teaching — you did make a difference.

The O'Hara Math Department offers a range of studies which permits students to further their mathematical knowledge each year.

This department has continued to grow to provide the best way to reach O'Hara students. After the successful experiment with the new method of teaching Algebra, the Math Department decided to follow the Saxon series throughout the curriculum instead of the traditional text. It is now used in Pre-Algebra, Algebra I, and Algebra II-C. This new series has given students a new feeling of confidence and many have taken more advanced courses.

Some of the more advanced courses include Advanced Algebra, Analysis, and Calculus. Of course, students with exceptional ability have the opportunity of completing the honors program in which five years of math can be taken in four high school years. Thus, O'Hara strives to offer the best opportunities to all its students.

Helping students meet the changes and understand the natural concepts in our world is the task of the science department.

The Science Department provides many courses for students such as human science, anatomy, biology, physical science, advanced biology, chemistry, and physics. The department currently offers 5½ credits of science courses, including two elective credits at both the junior and senior level.

This department has a unique method of teaching in that all the sophomore biology, the human science, anatomy, and physical science courses are team-taught. This system works extremely well to give students the best education possible in this field. The staff as a whole has indeed carried on their tradition of excellence.

Educate Our Minds

Practical Arts Counseling — Advice

Alive

The O'Hara Practical Arts Department offers classes ranging from Physical Education and Driver's Education to home economics classes including Foods and Nutrition, Clothing, Family Living and Independent Living. These classes teach students to be able to rely on themselves whether it be sewing their own clothes or cooking their own meals. They also help students prepare for their future when they may be in charge of a household.

Freshmen are required to take P.E. and Health; Driver's Ed. is offered to sophomores in which students actually go out and drive with an instructor. Seniors and juniors have their choice of home economics classes as electives. The biggest advantage gained from practical arts classes is the ability for the knowledge and experience to be used on an everyday basis.

Fine Arts

Academics and sports are not a bad combination for a high school, but a true educational institution would not be complete without its fine arts department. This aspect of life rounds out an education as well as an individual.

The entire staff of the Fine Arts Department is new to O'Hara this year. The formerly combined job of drama and speech is now separated into two fields in the persons of Ms. Deborah Lewis and Mrs. Dianna Nimmo, respectively. Mr. Dennis Altschul has taken over the organization of the choral group. Finally, Mr. Pat St. Louis teaches the photography class and all the art classes as well as a Western Civilization class.

Although the Fine Arts Department is not in the limelight as much as other organizations, it is nevertheless a hard-working, viral force of O'Hara.

Counselor

James Erhnman
Counselor

Teachers may complain about having to grade papers every night, but O'Hara's two counselors, Mrs. Colleen Harris and Mr. James Ehrnman, have a comparable load to carry in their daily work. Besides being constantly bombarded by students asking for recommendations and filling out last minute college applications, the counselors also plan activities throughout the year on drug awareness and career planning. The counseling center itself is a virtual library of information on careers, colleges, scholarships, and the effects of drugs.

Demands are also made upon the counselors outside of regular school hours. Many financial aid and college information nights are planned throughout the year for the benefit of students and parents. They also supervise all the testing programs at O'Hara.

The counselors' most important job, however, is being available as an adult advisor and friend for students, which gives O'Hara a truly Christian air.

Basic Skills

The Basic Skills Program is special service for students seeking extra help in reading, English, and math. The classes are on the freshman and sophomore levels and are designed to help each student individually. Students also have to be interviewed to be admitted into these classes.

Established in 1979, the Basic Skills Program further demonstrates O'Hara's concern for all its students. Ms. Kathy Duggan, a new asset this year, and Mrs. Alice Smith both work to keep the program running smoothly. For those who require the special services of these teachers, the classes are invaluable and much appreciated.

For Special

The well-stocked O'Hara library serves the students and faculty by providing books and magazines that support the curriculum as well as provide recreational reading. Available also are a variety of current magazines in all academic areas from computer science to world perspectives. Sr. Leoda Fleege, librarian, offers a course in library science to juniors and seniors. Freshmen are given classes in library orientation. The entire library staff offers assistance to those doing research.

Sr. Leoda Fleege
Head Librarian

The Instructional Media Center, run by Mrs. Whitehurse, makes available audio-visual materials including cassettes, filmstrips, slides, video-tapes and transparencies to students and faculty. The IMC is the center for individual tutoring, makeup tests, and group study.

The resources of these two centers provide students with most of their research needs.

Juniors Prepare For The Future

The class of '86 began their journey through O'Hara with the nickname "Itty Bitty . . ." People are now beginning to notice that they are not so small anymore; the class has grown. Various Career Awareness activities are turning minds to the future as college and career are coming into focus. Junior girls are brought together under a single desire to "Pomp the Seniors" during the Powder Puff game, Junior Ring Day brings about the unity of the class along with their first Prom. Relationships are reexamined and new bonds of friendship are formed. There is a feeling of excitement as the accomplishments of the first three years are added up and they are faced with the challenges that lay ahead. All in all it is a special fun filled year as the class continues the transition from the "Itty Bitty . . ." to the "Big Bad . . ."

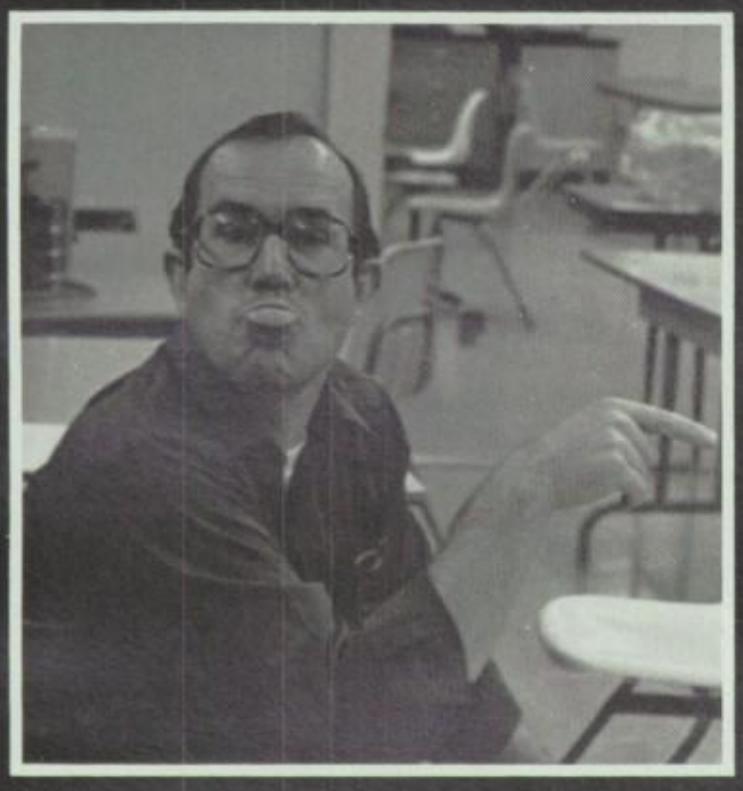
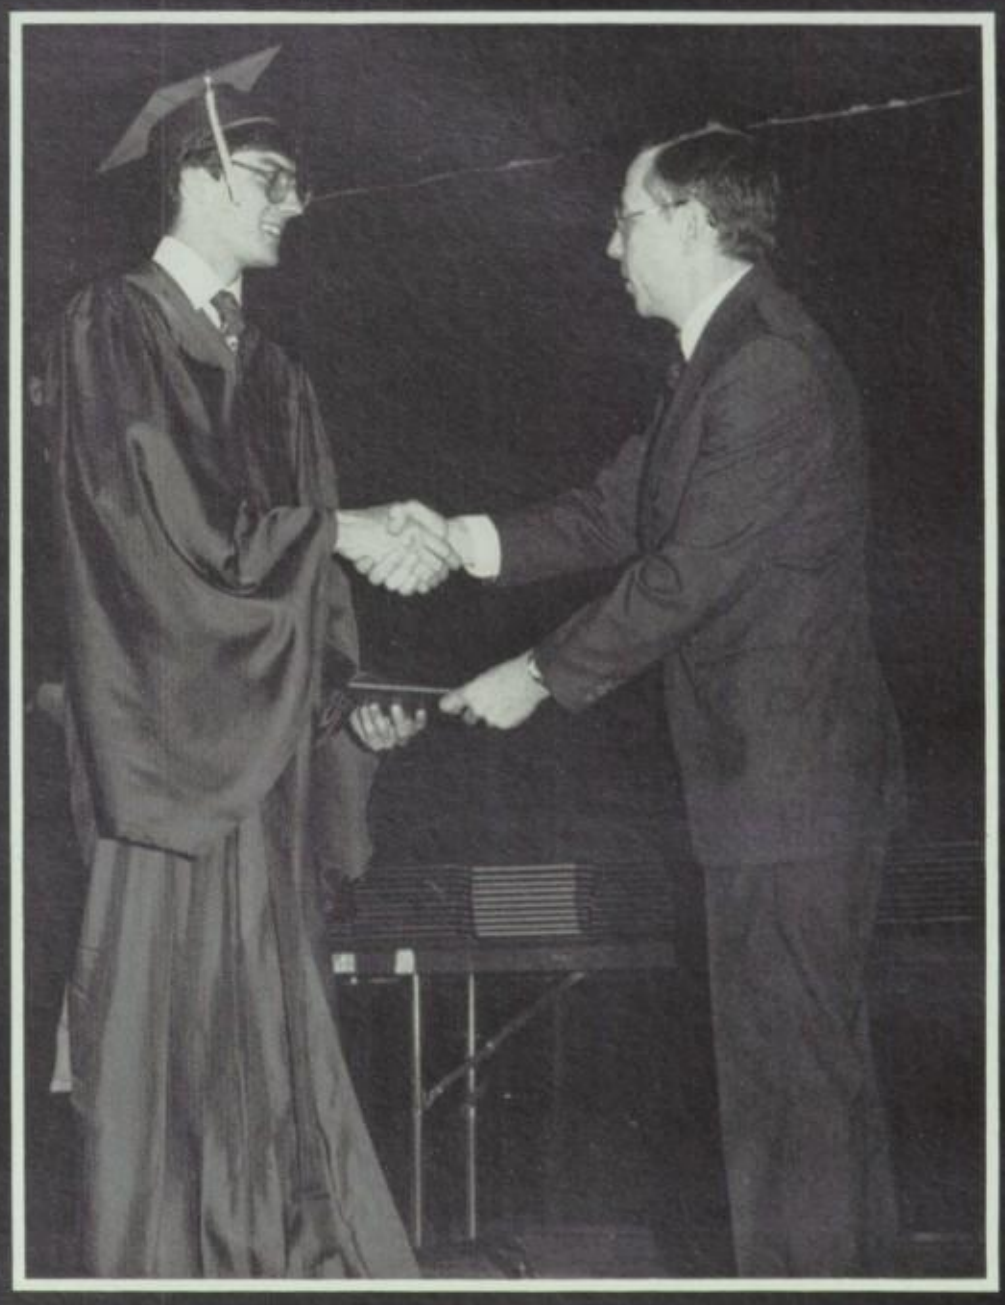
SENIORS

Seniors

The Seniors of 1985 took O'Hara by storm. Armed with hall passes and Cliff Notes, they met head-on the challenge of surviving a school year run by newcomer, Br. Chris and veterans Peggy Sachs and Stuart Bintner. There were many obstacles to overcome as Seniors battled through late nights with typewriters ("Where is my Diet Coke? I need some caffeine."), early mornings spent with feral pigs in Biology ("But my pig has no pancreas, Mr. Jed!" "You Seniors, I am sick and tired . . .), lunchtime in the commons ("Br. Chris took my sung lasses."), and afternoons in World Perspectives ("You mean that was a map of South America? I guess Peking wasn't the right answer, huh?")

Add Class





But there were also many good times, such as Senior Class Retreat (" . . . Jam on those backrubs!"), the game we almost wore a toga to (" . . . and we can't even play a kazoo?"), and let's not forget all the fun Seniors had selling trash bags and, yes, Five dollar car raffle tickets.

Senioritis ran high. Expected in March, it often hit in August, but the Seniors survived. The work intensified as seniors prayed for a miracle (in Prayer Class, of course) which would enable them to pass, and yes, even skip finals. At last, the long awaited arrived, and even though many still owed five hours to O'Hara, all were proud to don green or gold caps and gowns and GRADUATE!

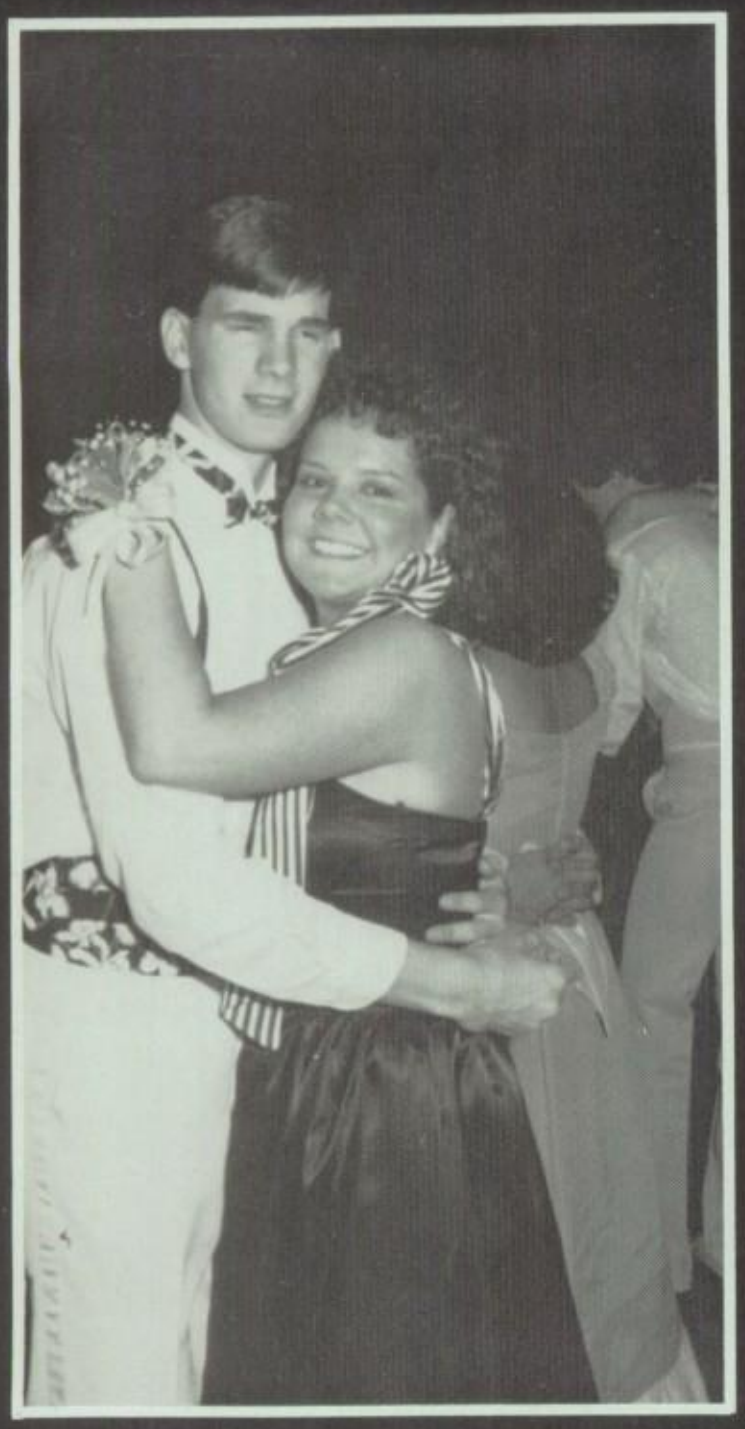
ACCOUNTING I



WHAT IS A FRIEND

What is a friend? I will tell you. It is a person with whom you dare to be yourself. Your soul can be naked with him. He seems to ask of you to put on nothing, only to be what you are. He does not want you to be better or worse. When you are with him, you feel as a prisoner feels who has been declared innocent. You do not have to be on your guard. You can say what you think, so long as it is genuinely you. He understands those contradictions in your nature that lead others to misjudge you. With him you breathe freely. You can avow your little vanities and envies and hates and vicious sparks, your meannesses and absurdities and, in opening them up to him, they are lost, dissolved on the white ocean of his loyalty. He understands. You do not have to be careful. You can abuse him, neglect him, tolerate him. Best of all, you can keep still with him. It makes no matter. He likes you-he is like fire that purges to the bone. He understands. He understands. You can weep with him, sing with him, laugh with him, pray with him. Through it all-and underneath-he sees, knows and loves you. A friend? What is a friend? Just one, I repeat, with whom you dare to be yourself.

Embarrassed? Thought you would be. I wanted to thank you for being my friend (refer to pp. 168-169) for four years. I won't bother saying anything stupid like "the best years of my life," because life was sometimes difficult. But we did have a lot of good times and you were there during the bad times too. And Angie, you're still the one I can be me with (or anyone else I might choose to be). Thanks- You're awesome!!

Thoughts from a great year:
; Oh my God — It's Thursday!; Homecoming Rick, You were! I swear you were!!; Gretchen & Kathleen — wasn't Dune a great movie?; "Braaaach!! Alright folks now settle down."; Missy I just can't understand where that hubcap went.; Later — Why not now?; Excuse me, but is it time yet?; Flying lessons — location 31st St.; Does everyone play hangman on a retreat?; A snowman at 2 AM?; Is that why you're laughing . . . Because my slip is showing?; Come on. Girls upstairs. Boys downstairs.; Don't straddle the fence; SEND HELP!; Religion class — I'm so stuffed I can't eat another bite!; Rick would you like to go to Wendy's . . . How about the bakery?; Dear Jane, We are in -less' class. The hand; Oh no! A skittles fight!; No not a doorknob; What is a nudinia?; Wake me up when class is over; Z! And above all, never forget — Safetypup says . . .

To you "Select" Seniors:

Monnie & Deb thanks for all the smiles and good times! Ann after Annie's. Beth the swimming pool retreat was great! Monnie be careful of those stairs and slow down. I'll have to babysit Ben, Andrea, & Adam again so we can have another party. Deb next time we run into guys with our pajamas on bring your own blanket! Ray & Craig W. of F. was a blast — especially the race riot and the wet jeans on a cool night. Don, Deb, Ray sometime soon we'll have to play football again. Gina marriage is great but forget the "scraping!" Carol you can do it if you keep working at it. Craig be careful of flat tires on snowy nights & Bri, Mike, Gary, Deb, Monnie we'll have to get my car stuck again! Everyone — let's go saborage the Junior float; how many shaving crean fights can we have? Go out to Longview Farm — No Way! Well maybe sometime. I'll miss all you peoples — keep in touch!

Love,
ME

Cutloose!

For the 1984-85 Sheild we chose a theme of Cutloose for a reason — a specific reason. Now after you've gone through the book and relived some of the memories maybe you have a better understanding of why Cutloose. If not I'll try to explain.

A synonym for Cutloose would be to free but the word also implies a release of inhibitions, an unconfined spirit doing as it wishes. This is part of our message — to move ahead doing as you wish and not bothering with what others will think of you. It's like the song "I'm Free" by Kenny Loggins — "Heaven helps the man who fights his fear." If we can overcome our inhibitions we can do anything we put our minds to.

Curloose also brings to mind parties and excirement — these were also a part of the 1984-85 school year. There were good times, good friends, good laughs, and good memories. I hope we were able to capture the best of these for you.
